Abstract

5

A apparatus having layers. A first layer has a conductive adhesive region and a non-conductive adhesive region. A second layer has an electronic component in electrical connection to the conductive adhesive regions in the first layer so that the conductive adhesive regions provide contact points for the electronic component. A third layer has an adhesive material to couple the apparatus to an object. A forth layer substantially covers the third layer.